Admissions Counsellors Offer Challenge
To Alumni
by Larry Puckett '74

As Admissions Counselors for Bryan, Patty and I have had the privilege of referring many, many young people to Bryan College. It is so satisfying for us to see students we recommend now attending Bryan. Time and again these students express to us the leading of the Lord in their lives and their appreciation of Bryan. The excitement they communicate makes us thankful for the opportunity we have had to touch their lives.

Most students attend Bryan as a result of the referrals of current students and alumni. You can request information for your own distribution and for materials to be sent directly to student prospects by filling out the form below.

ALUMNI GLEANINGS

Ty O. Pray '39, who makes his home in Winnsboro, S.C., is pastor of Mount Zion A.M.E. Church, headquartered in Lancaster, S.C. Mr. Pray served as a United States Army chaplain during World War II and has served in various capacities since then. He is on the board of directors of the American Council on Germany.

Helen (Gow) Scott '48, continues to share a happy home with her husband, Asa, in their mobile home in Camp Verde, Arizona. Helen now has a full-time office position. The Scotts occasionally share fellowship with Wayne Smith '41 and his wife and son who live in the same town. Jack Lakey '52 and his wife are visiting the Lord even after we're out of the Army. He is now in an academic job, as the evaluation officer here at the U.S. Army Chaplain School, where chaplains receive both their basic and career training. As a result, he does not minister to soldiers and their families. He has a small, week-end church in Brooklyn where he preaches only once a week, so we're not involved in the chapel program here on Ft. Wadsworth.

We believe our military life has all been in His plan and design for our lives. One question we frequently asked is, must we conform or must we compromise those convictions we hold dear? The answer is "No." Ceci preaches the same sermons he would in a civilian church, though perhaps very simple and basic, because military congregations are not as firmly grounded in the Word as a typical congregation might be. For obvious reasons, things of a denominational nature are not made an issue. As far as lifestyle, social pressures of various kinds, etc., we find that we are in a civilian church. The Army respects the convictions of the individual chaplains.

Another question we've frequently asked is and recently has been the inclusion of a controversial hymn in the new hymnal. The Army was voted out by the other branches on that. However, the word is that in the next printing, it will not be included.

...I wouldn't trade those four years on Bryan Hill for four on any other campus!

Admissions Counsellors Offer Challenge To Alumni

by Larry Puckett '74

We just finished our first ten years of service in the Army. As is the pattern of a military chaplain, our first three or four years were spent in ministering to the young soldiers, many of whom were just entering. That was during the days of Vietnam uncertainty and all that goes with it, and the men were receptive to the messages of the Lord. This was followed then by a ministry in family chapels.

Ceci enjoyed this immensely since it took him back to the days of pastorating, which he loved. With the help of our younger daughter who was still attending East Texas Baptist University in the church service during Sunday morning worship, where we would have from thirty-five to fifty children. The flaregraph materials and experience which started for me in my C.S.A. assignments at Bryan have been a source of help to me down through the years, including Chapel in the Chapel. Of course, we were there when a chapel situation, Sunday school work is a ministry too. Ceci has been the recipient of much training (on Uncle Sam, too!) which he looks forward to using for the deputation ministry.
